Curriculum INTENT

All pupils become socially and emotionally intelligent, as well as academically, so they can access all learning and life opportunities, now and in the future.

What we want our curriculum to do for our children

At Manor Field we want our children to develop a lifelong love of learning and to be curious, motivated and excited by all aspects of school life. We expect learning to have context, with rich learning opportunities that link to build upon previous learning to enable children to develop transferable knowledge and skills.

Having consulted parents and staff on what they would like pupils to learn, experience and become by the time they leave primary school, it was clear that social and emotional development was a high priority as well as learning and thinking skills.

We want our children to be socially well developed, collaborating and learning with and from others. We want children to talk about their learning and to understand how they learn.

We want our children to be emotionally developed so they can regulate their emotions, recognising when they are dysregulated and how to address this. By doing this, children will be physically ready to learn.

We want our children to understand learning and thinking skills, to recognise different learning habits in themselves and others and adopt good habits.

We want our children to experience and appreciate the Arts and be inspired and create a diverse range of art, music and dance.

We want our children to experience and appreciate Sport and PE and to instill a love of sport which will continue throughout their lives.
